

Plot of consumption prices of basic commodities in Canada:

In terms of Consumption Prices of basic commodities, we see an increase in the purchase of items like food and beverages, groceries and liquor stores. This graph lends credence to our observation that these commodities experienced a surge in consumer demand as the number of Covid-19 cases in each province began rising. There were numerous reports of people stockpiling goods as provinces declared a state of emergency; this graph is in line with such reports and helps us identify the type of goods that were being purchased.